HOUSEWORK

Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A haggard face tells the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Deranged menses, leucorrhœa and falling of the womb result from overwork. Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs in perfect condition.

WINE OF CARDUI

is doing this for thousands of American women to-day. It cured Mrs. Jones and that is why she writes this frank letter:

Glendeane, Ky., Feb. 10, 1901.
I am so glad that your Wine of Cardui is helping me. I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I am doing my own work without any help, and washed last week and was not one bit tired. That shows that the Wine is doing me good. I am getting fleshier than I ever was before, and sleep good and eat hearty. Before I began taking Wine of Cardui, I used to have to lay down five or six times every day, but now I do not think of lying down through the day. MRS. RICHARD JONES.

MY POET

I was busy one bright September morning packing my trunks for my fall removal from my uncle's house in the country to the marble fronted hotel on Broadway that numbered me each winter among its inmates when my cousin Adelaide came dancing into the room and commanded me to give up all thoughts of a journey for three months at least.

"And why, pray?" I asked. "You know I have to go out west after I reach New York. Come what may, I must see an Indian summer on the prairies."

"Bother the prairies and the Indian summer, too!" cried Adelaide, taking a letter from her apron pocket and waving it in the air. "Look at the signature."

I did look, and I might have been looking to this day for all the information I got; but Adelaide grew impatient and, snatching the letter from my hand, exclaimed, "Listen, you goose!" and read the letter aloud.

My Dear Friend—I am coming into the country for a month or two. My doctor positively forbids my staying in New York during the fall. Remembering our old schoolboy league, I have selected W. as the place of my exile and shall be here on the 20th, wind and weather permitting.

"What do you think of that?" asked Adelaide, making large eyes at me over the top of the letter.

"I have not heard anything yet to make me postpone my journey."

"Wait a moment; I'll finish. 'I am, as ever, yours faithfully'"—

"Well, go on."

—"'James Quitman.'"

"James Quitman! You are mad, Addie. He can never be coming here."

"There is the letter. Father has always known him, it seems. It is the poet, and we are to have him stay here all the time. Father is to meet him at the station tonight and not let him go to the hotel on any account. Won't people stare when we walk into church next Sunday?"

I closed the lid of my trunk in the twinkling of an eye. The poet I had so often longed to see, the man over whose tender verses I had made myself a Niobe scores of times—was it possible that the same roof was going to shelter us both?

Dinner was a thing unthought of in the house that day, and my uncle lunched meekly at one of the china closets off cold meat and bread and preserved strawberries, while Addie and I actually ate rose leaves and sugar and cream as a suitable pendant to the work in which we were engaged. Nothing less ethereal would we partake while fitting up that poet's chamber. By 4 o'clock that afternoon our labors were ended. The house was like a bed of roses.

Of course the train was late that night. Trains always are late when we are expecting any one by them, and Addie and I had time to work ourselves into a feverish state that gave us some very becoming red cheeks. We heard the whistle of the train, and five minutes afterward a carriage stopped before the gate. The poet had come!

He climbed out of the carriage like a crab, sidewise, and, coming up the graveled walk toward the front door, presented to our admiring eyes the figure of a stoutish, middle aged man, with dark eyes and hair and a very pleasant smile. He did not wear a Spanish cloak and a sombrero. He was clad in linen garments and thatched with a rough straw hat that had evidently seen service. We heard him as he came up the walk.

"Very pretty house, Tom; very pretty house. Those girls your daughters, hey? I see they've got those horrid city fashions—low neck and short sleeves. If I had a daughter, I'd sew her dress to her ears."

Addie and I looked at each other in consternation and barely managed to give him a civil greeting as he crossed the threshold. Was this the man who had raved about his Lydia?

That bosom, white and fond and fair,
I would I were the enamored air
To faint and fall in passing there.

Low necks, indeed! I sat beside him at the tea table, as had been previously arranged, and saw that all things were within his reach. Never did Hindoo idol tax his votary more severely. I had hardly time to snatch a mouthful myself, though, for the matter of that, his appetite quite took away my own. He was a regular Dr. Johnson for tea, strawberry preserves pleased him, and soda biscuits vanished before his attack as green things before the march of a cloud of locusts. Heaven knows he had one qualification—a stomach!

Tea over, we adjourned to the rose scented parlors, and the volume on the center table caught his eye. He took it up, turned over the pages, laughing now and then to himself, and finally tossed it back carelessly.

"The unconsciousness of genius!" whispered Addie in my ear just as he turned upon us.

"Who owns this book?"

I modestly answered that I had that great pleasure.

"Great pleasure, hey? She calls it a pleasure, Tom! Hem! I suppose I ought to feel complimented; but I don't. Young lady, will you do me one favor?"

"What is it, sir?"

"Put that stupid trash into the fire."

"Stupid trash!" cried Addie, aghast, snatching up the volume.

"Yes; I wrote it. I was a boy, and, by George, my publishers took it out of my desk and went mad over it, while they actually turned up their noses at my report of the poor laws. Would you believe it?"

My uncle looked sympathizing. Addie arranged the ice cream glasses before him without a word.

"But, sir, look at the fame you have won," I remarked.

"Hem! Fame! It's a rag fluttering on a bush. I wouldn't give a button for it. Five thousand dollars a year will keep you well clothed and well fed. Fame won't."

He helped himself to an ice.

There was no reply. The two gentlemen resumed their political discussion, waxing so warm in the defense of their favorite views that they were in a fair way to clear the tray between them. Addie caught up the contemned volume of poems and vanished from the room. I followed her. She fled up the stairs like a fairy, and I found her in the poet's chamber, stripping the roses from the vases with frantic haste.

"What on earth are you about?" I asked, halting on the threshold in amazement.

"He shall not have one of them," she said, half crying. "His curtains shall not be looped up with them. I have a great mind to tie them back with rope yarn. To think how we worked all the day to give him pleasure, and after all he only cares about eating and drinking and being an alderman. Oh, it is too bad!"

I burst out laughing and ran downstairs. The contrast between our dreams of the poet and the poet as he was was rich. I had to wait a moment in the hall to get my face into "company order," and then, pushing open the half closed door, I went back into the parlor.

At first sight I thought it was empty. The chairs were pushed away from the table, and there was a faint smell of cigars. Had they actually been smoking there? No; I heard my uncle pacing up and down the garden, as was his wont each evening, and the fragrance of the weed came that way, but he was alone. Where was the poet?

I caught sight of him at last, sitting at the open window with the rose colored curtains falling in soft folds around him. The moon was up, shining gloriously upon the grassy yard beneath him. The night wind rustled in the leaves of the maples above his head. Addie, coming into the room, paused at the sight of my uplifted finger on the threshold.

It had been all a "sham" then. Our poet, though a hearty eater, still retained his love of the beautiful. What on earth had made him talk such heresy when he sat rapt in enjoyment, never stirring, scarcely breathing, as he watched that glorious moon? I would steal softly to his side, pause, try to convict him and make him recant all the fibs he had told about these beautiful blossomings of his youth, the poems.

The carpet was thick and soft, and it muffled my footfall effectually, and I stood beside him unnoticed. His face was hidden by his arm. I heard a choking sound—he was weeping. My heart melted in a gush of pity. I laid my hand upon his shoulder as sympathizingly as I could. He started a little. His head settled down upon one side, exposing his face. The mouth opened, and—he snored!

The next morning I started on my trip to the west, and from that day to this I have never met a "poet."

The Cruel Wife.

A man who was given to grumbling at everything and on every occasion was attacked by inflammatory rheumatism and was carefully nursed by his wife, who was very devoted to him in spite of his fault-finding disposition. His suffering caused her to burst into tears sometimes as she sat at his bedside.

One day a friend of the invalid came in and asked him how he was getting on.

"Badly, badly!" he exclaimed. "And it's all my wife's fault."

"Is it possible?" asked the friend in surprise.

"Yes. The doctor told me that damp places were bad for me, and there that woman sits and cries just to make the air moist in the room."

Vacation Days.

The summer vacation is beginning to find favor more and more, not only in the large cities but in the small country towns as well. Many of the larger establishments now give an annual vacation to each of their employes without any loss of salary. The vacation is a blessing to everyone connected with the place. Sometimes it is difficult to figure the time to the satisfaction of all, but it is always possible to get in the time so each will have an opportunity to get away and get breezes through their ideas, changes in their thoughts, and find refreshment in the change of atmosphere. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," and the vacation is a physical as well as a commercial necessity. In truth the best way to prolong existence is to steal a few days from toil each year.

Greek Water Coolers.

In many places in Greece a cream colored water jug or jar is made which is so porous that when filled with water the moisture keeps continually exuding to the outside and there evaporating, which wonderfully cools the contents, especially when the vessel stands in a draft. These cheap "water coolers" are used by everybody, rich and poor, and great numbers of them are manufactured and sold every year.

Disappointed.

A little girl was sent to school for the first time. On her return her mother asked how she liked it.

"I didn't like it a bit," the mite replied. "The teacher put me on a chair and told me to sit there for the present, and I sat and sat, but she never gave me any present."—Normal Instructor.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy.

Dr. Charles H. Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by F. Duhring.

I Advise Suffering Women Strongly, to Take Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This advice comes from a woman who had suffered all the miseries women can suffer from disease, and had been perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This great medicine for women establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Read Mrs. Kempson's letter and, if you are sick, follow her advice.

"Although it has been quite a time since I wrote you," says Mrs. Fred Kempson, of Cambria, Hillsdale Co., Mich., Box 57, "still your name is a blessing in our house, and I think it my duty to let you know that I am still enjoying good health, thanks to you and your 'Favorite Prescription.' When I think how I was five years ago, and then see how I am now, I say, God bless Dr. Pierce's works, and may he live long to help poor suffering women. I have never had any return of my weakness and am well and hearty. Can do all my own work without any pain. You saved me from the grave when all others failed. I advise suffering women strongly, to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as I know it will cure in all cases, if indeed there is a cure."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are an excellent laxative, suited to the use of delicate women.

POLITICAL.

Judge Samuel K. Dougherty was in town last Saturday evening. He came down to attend the organization of a camp of the Woodmen of the World on that evening. In reply to a question as to whether or not he would be a candidate before the forthcoming Republican county convention for Superior Judge, he replied emphatically that that was his intention. This makes at least two candidates whose names will be presented before that convention for the Superior Judgeship, the other candidate being Albert G. Burnett, who was elected on the same ticket with Judge Dougherty four years ago, both receiving over 1000 majority over their opponents, Hon. J. C. Sims and A. G. Ware of Santa Rosa.

PROF. A. C. MCMEANS, for many years one of the foremost educators of Sonoma county, was in town last Thursday. Mr. McMeans is a resident of Santa Rosa, where he founded the McMeans Normal School, eighteen or twenty years ago, and as its principal made it one of the leading educational institutions of the county. Previous to founding his normal school Mr. McMeans was Superintendent of Public Schools of Sonoma county for two terms, embracing the years from 1875 to 1879. Since that period his whole time has been occupied in advancing the cause of education in our county. Appreciating his worth as a good citizen, his name will be presented by his many friends before the Democratic county nominating convention for a place on the ticket for the office of County Treasurer. He will undoubtedly receive the nomination, as his name will give strength and dignity to the ticket of our friends the enemy.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

O. O. Webber, the present incumbent, will be a candidate before the next Republican county convention for the nomination of District Attorney of Sonoma county. Mr. Webber has filled the office with great ability the past four years and has been highly commended by more than one Grand Jury for the able manner in which he has handled the affairs of his office. Mr. Webber has a large personal following in this county regardless of politics and will make a strong candidate on the Republican ticket.

FOR COUNTY RECORDER

A. J. Atchinson of Santa Rosa will be a candidate before the Republican county convention for the nomination of County Recorder. He is well known to all the old residents of the county, having held the office of Auditor and Recorder for one term, being succeeded by the present incumbent, Fred L. Wright. Mr. Atchinson during his incumbency was a faithful, painstaking and obliging official. His announcement appears in another column, which does not admit of a doubt that he is out for the nomination, which he will probably secure, in which event the Democrats will have to nominate a very popular man to succeed Mr. Wright, who will not run again for the office.

A NUMBER of fruit growers in this valley are investing in hogs and feeding their fruit to them. They say this pays better than disposing of the product of their orchards to the canneries, which are offering ruinously low prices for fruit this season.

DR. WM. M. LAWLOR still holds on to his job at the Home for Feeble-Minded. It is said that Governor Gage will reappoint him Superintendent to serve for four years should he fail to secure the Republican nomination for Governor.

Mrs. Gray of San Francisco visited the Granice home Sunday.

Mrs. Emily Loud of San Francisco paid Sonoma a business visit last Saturday.

The Misses Granice were hospitably entertained at the Engler place Thursday.

M. V. Vanderhoof, the life insurance agent of Santa Rosa, was in town Wednesday.

A. C. McMeans of Santa Rosa registered at the Union Hotel Thursday morning.

Miss Bessie Brady, after a visit of several weeks with Miss Theo Bates, has returned to San Francisco.

Miss Ella Bethune and Miss Julia Curtain of Alameda spent Wednesday as guests at the Granice residence.

Miss Marguerite Walker of Oakland accompanied her aunt, Mrs. Humphreys, to Sonoma last Saturday, where they spent the day.

Master Herbert von Meyerinck, son of Baron and Baroness von Meyerinck of San Francisco, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Granice.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Payne and little daughter of San Francisco are up for their usual summer vacation. They are guests at the Union Hotel. Mr. Payne is a machine operator on the San Francisco Call.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman, after a residence in the valley of sixteen years, have moved to San Francisco, where Mr. Sherman has a position with the Cold Storage Company and Mr. Will Sherman is on the Daily Evening Post.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gilbert of San Francisco were in town Sunday. Mr. Gilbert, who is an old Sonoma boy, was recently married and this was the first visit of his young and pretty bride to his native town.

Clarence F. Lea of Santa Rosa, candidate for the Democratic nomination of District Attorney for Sonoma county, was in town Wednesday. Mr. Lea will undoubtedly receive the nomination, as he is a young, popular and ambitious lawyer and will give strength to his ticket.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Madison entertained a party of friends on their pretty new launch last Sunday. A cruise was made to Black Point and a fine lunch partaken of. The Riches, Morrises and Appletons drove from here to Lakeville in a four-horse 'bus and went aboard the launch there.

Wallman-Barnard Marriage In Napa

George Wallman and Annie S. Barnard of this place were married in Napa by Justice Palmer at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at his office on Brown street.

The happy couple left on the afternoon train on their wedding trip.

A GOOD WORD FOR POND

The Healdsburg Sun has the following concerning C. H. Pond, who seeks the nomination for District Attorney at the hands of the Republican party:

"Mr. Pond is a good lawyer and one of Mendocino township's most popular public men. He has served several terms as Justice of the Peace and City Recorder, and is serving as City Clerk and Water and Light Collector. Four years ago his name came before the Republican convention as a candidate for District Attorney and he was only defeated by one-half a vote. If he succeeds this year in getting the nomination, Mendocino township will stand by him irrespective of party affiliations."

The divorce cases of Pearl E. Hayden vs. John Hayden and Mary E. Ritchie vs. William Ritchie were submitted and taken under advisement.

Not Rushed For Time.

In the days when the west was still wild and woolly and when Judge Lynch frequently sat in place of the properly constituted Solomons three wanderers were approached on the frontier, accused of the most unforgivable of crimes in that part of the world, horse stealing, and sentenced to be hanged. They were courteously given their choice of trees, the presiding officer thinking they might have a sentimental preference in the matter. Two of the culprits said they were indifferent. The third, a Celt, pointed to a gooseberry bush and said:

"Oi'll die th' aysier uf Oi bez but hung from that."

"But that bush is not strong enough to hang you on," protested the judge.

"Shure, Oi'm in no hurry," airily replied the Celt. "Just let's wait, your-r-r honor, till it grows."—Philadelphia Times.

The Japanese Dentist.

The Japanese dentist does not frighten his patient with an array of steel instruments. All his operations in tooth drawing are performed by the thumb and forefinger of one hand. The skill necessary to do this is acquired only after long practice, but when once it is obtained the operator is able to extract half a dozen teeth in about thirty seconds without once removing his fingers from the patient's mouth. The dentist's education commences with the pulling out of pegs which have been pressed into soft wood. It ends with the drawing of hard pegs which have been driven into an oak plank with a heavy mallet.

Hairbrushes.

Clean hairbrushes are essential to the health of the hair and scalp, and the worst cases of dandruff are often to be traced to carelessness in this matter. Directly the brush shows the least griminess wash it in borax water. Do not have the water more than lukewarm and "pat" it with the brush, being careful only to dip in the bristles, for washing is by no means improving to the polish of the back. When clean rinse in clear, cold water and dry in the air. Do not put the brush in the sunshine or by the fire or the bristles will soon become yellow.

What are Humors?

They are vitiated or morbid fluids coursing the veins and affecting the tissues. They are commonly due to defective digestion but are sometimes inherited.

How do they manifest themselves?

In many forms of cutaneous eruption, salt rheum or eczema, pimples and boils, and in weakness, languor, general debility.

How are they expelled? By

which also builds up the system that has suffered from them.

It is the best medicine for all humors.

A Serious Grass Fire

A grass fire on Will Ashe's Ten Oaks ranch, near Warfield station, on Friday afternoon of last week, destroyed a large quantity of pasturage, fruit trees, grape vines and timber on the place. The spread of the flames was very rapid and before they could be got under control by the fire fighters they had swept over the Quien ranch, the loss on this place being confined to pasturage and timber. The cause of the fire was a spark from a passing engine, which ignited the dry grass alongside the railway track.

PASSING OF THE OLDEST RESIDENT

Mrs. Elise von Geldern Is No More—Lived in Sonoma for 52 Years.

Mrs. Elise von Geldern, widow of the late Dr. Charles von Geldern, is dead. She passed peacefully away at her home on First street East last Monday, where she had resided continuously for fifty years.

The deceased was born in Bremen, Germany, in November, 1815, and in 1848 was married to Dr. Charles von Geldern in her native town.

Immediately after their marriage they left for Valparaiso, South America, where the doctor engaged in the practice of medicine. He had no sooner located in his new home than the gold excitement broke out in California, and with his bride he set sail in the brig "Reform" for San Francisco, where he arrived in the fall of 1849.

Dr. and Mrs. von Geldern shortly after their arrival in the future metropolis of California came to Sonoma, where the doctor engaged in the practice of medicine. For years he was the family physician of General M. G. Vallejo and other notable and distinguished characters of those days. He soon built up a large and lucrative practice, which he enjoyed up to almost the day of his death, which took place in 1881.

The widow continued to reside in their home built in 1852, and when she died last Monday she had lived there continuously — twenty-four years of happy married life and twenty one years of widowhood.

Dr. and Mrs. von Geldern had two children. One of these died in infancy and the other, Charles von Geldern Jr., passed away when about ten years of age.

Mrs. von Geldern was the aunt of Mr. Otto von Geldern, the eminent civil engineer of San Francisco. Years ago she adopted Mr. von Geldern as her son, having no living children of her own, and about ten years ago deeded to him her entire fortune.

The deceased was the sister of Dr. Heynemann, a pioneer Californian, who died several years ago.

Mrs. von Geldern, although 87 years of age, was an active old lady up to within a couple of years ago, when her extreme old age commenced to tell upon her bodily functions, although her mind was as bright as a new dollar. She was a kindly and lovable old lady, and many a silent tear will be shed over her demise by those who had the pleasure of knowing her and appreciating her worth.

The funeral of this good and true pioneer woman of Sonoma took place Wednesday, and in the presence of many who had known her for many years, she was laid to rest in Mountain Cemetery beside the remains of her late husband, who had preceded her in her journey to the Great Beyond twenty-one years ago.

Dr. Walliser's Departure

Dr. Carl Walliser, for many years a successful practicing physician in this place, left for Oakland yesterday to enter upon a lucrative practice in that city, where he has recently erected a fine and commodious home. During Dr. Walliser's many years' residence here he had won the confidence and esteem of the entire community as a gentleman and physician, and in taking leave of Sonoma he carries with him the good wishes of a host of friends, who wish him success and prosperity in his new home.

Previous to taking his departure, Dr. Walliser turned over his practice to Dr. A. M. Thomson, who located here about a year age.

THE WRONG MAN IS ARRESTED

Singular Case of Mistaken Identity

Ten days ago a man by the name of J. M. Kingwood hired a horse and cart from a livery stable in Sacramento but failed to return the rig. The next day Kingwood was seen with the stolen property driving toward Stockton, since which time he has completely disappeared from view.

The Chief of Police of Sacramento on Saturday last forwarded postal cards to all the Sheriffs in this part of the State giving a description of the culprit and the horse and cart. One of these cards fell into the hands of the Sheriff of Napa county, who was informed last Thursday afternoon that a man and rig answering the postal card's description in every particular had passed through Napa earlier in the day and had taken the road to Sonoma. He thereupon telephoned Sheriff Grace to be on the lookout for the culprit and arrest him. The Sheriff being absent, Under Sheriff Wines immediately upon the receipt of the telephone message communicated by wire to Deputy Sheriff Joe Ryan of this place, who had one of the postal cards in his possession describing Kingwood and the horse and cart, to be on the lookout for the man.

About 2 o'clock the supposed culprit drove into town and was immediately placed under arrest by Deputy Ryan and City Marshal Albertson.

The arrested man declared that his name was not Kingwood. He admitted coming from Stockton but claimed to be F. W. Travers, who had worked there several months, but who formerly lived on the Sebastopol road, where he was engaged in blacksmithing. However, as he answered the description of Kingwood as to complexion, age, height and weight, as did likewise the horse and cart, Deputy Ryan, although certain he had the wrong man, so emphatic was he in declaring his innocence, took him into custody and, without handcuffing the prisoner, jumped into the supposed stolen rig and drove twenty-two miles to Santa Rosa.

Upon arriving there Mr. Travers had no trouble whatever in establishing his identity, and of course was released from custody.

It appears that Travers had left Stockton for Sebastopol, where he had secured work at his trade of blacksmithing.

That he should answer the description of Kingwood in almost every particular was most singular, but that the horse and cart should prove to be almost the exact counterpart of the stolen property is more singular still. Verily, things are not what they appear to be sometimes.

Runaway Accident

"Redwood" Thompson, the pioneer farmer of Glen Ellen, met with a painful accident on Friday of last week. While driving a two-horse farm wagon between his ranch and town the horses became frightened and ran away. They left the road and before Mr. Thompson could get them under control he was dragged through the brush and badly cut about the head and face by the branches of scrub oaks and underbrush. Dr. Crepin attended to the hurts, one of which was a deep cut on the side of the neck. At latest accounts Mr. Thompson was rapidly recovering from his injuries.

RAILWAY DISASTER NARROWLY AVERTED

Timely Intervention of a Cool-Headed Woman

As the afternoon train of the California Northwestern Railway Company was speeding on its way from Sonoma to Tiburon on Monday last, a terrible disaster was no doubt averted by the intervention of Mrs. James W. Cochrane of San Rafael.

About an hour before the train was due at San Rafael a large gum tree fell directly across the track, just beyond the tunnel leading into the suburbs of that town. The presence of the tree and the danger the Sonoma valley branch train due at that place at 5 o'clock, which was crowded with passengers, was conveyed to her by her little girl. Securing help she essayed to have the obstruction removed, but the tree proved to be too bulky. The thoughful woman then rushed back to her home, which was near by, and telephoned to the station at San Rafael for assistance.

An employee of the California Northwestern hastened to the spot on a bicycle, where he arrived a few minutes before the train was due. Jumping from his wheel he ran up the track with all speed and succeeded in flagging the train just as it emerged from the tunnel, and it was brought to a standstill within a short distance from the obstruction on the track.

As the cars were running about twenty-five miles an hour, the presence of mind of Mrs. Cochrane without a doubt averted a terrible disaster, as the coaches were filled with passengers.

Democratic Club at Glen Ellen

A Democratic club was organized at Glen Ellen on Thursday evening last, with a membership of forty. Robert P. Hill was elected President and James W. Gibson was chosen as Secretary. The object of the club is to promote the interests of and harmonize the Democratic party in Glen Ellen township. The next meeting night of the club will be Wednesday evening, when a number of aspirants for county offices will be present and address the meeting.

Cowardly Dog-Poisoner

The cowardly dog poisoner is again abroad. One night this week Fred Poulson's intelligent hunting dog "Sport" was poisoned in front of his dwelling on Napa street by some one having a grudge against his master, as the canine was a harmless and kindly disposed dog. We again reiterate that a person who would poison a dumb brute is dangerous to be at large, as he would not hesitate to poison a human being to gratify a spirit of revenge.

Glen Ellen News Items

Delightfully cool and pleasant here now since the hot wave of last week.

The Mervyn has put up a brand new sign, fine and large. "He who runs may read."

H. H. Granice of the INDEX-TRIBUNE spent Monday in Glen Ellen. He took lunch at the Mervyn.

W. P. Thompson, a prominent real estate dealer of San Francisco, with his wife and son are stopping at the Mervyn.

Redwood Thompson is rapidly improving under Dr. Crepin's skillful treatment. The doctor is kept very busy these days.

A new store building is being erected on Carquinez avenue by Mr. J. W. Gibson, which will be rented to a desirable tenant as soon as completed.

We had just the finest kind of a time at the social hop at Mervyn Hall last Saturday night. Lots of pretty girls, good music, fine lunch, and "all went merry as a marriage bell."

Mr. Warrener, builder and contractor of El Verano, is putting up a nice cottage of seven rooms for J. Chauvet to be occupied by Mr. Suttenfield's family. Mr. S. is bookkeeper at the Home.

Mrs. Skahan is doing a rushing business. She has her store cleaned up as bright as a new pin and keeps a great assortment of groceries, butter, eggs and fruit. She is pleasant and accommodating to all.

Mrs. Griffin of San Jose is visiting her daughter, Mrs. P. Monahan, who is now living on the old Kohler ranch, a couple of miles above town. The old lady is over eighty years old and, I am told, as sprightly as a girl.

An entertainment for the benefit of the Congregational Church was given in Kirkwood Hall, Kenwood, Friday evening. The program comprised music, reading, recitations, with ice cream and cake refreshments. A pleasant time was enjoyed.

Emmett Smith, a telegraph operator in the employ of the C. P. R. R., has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Delmar, on his ranch near Warfield the past week. He has been pretty busy fighting fires, which were too near to be comfortable or safe. Fire is a good servant but a bad master.

George Laplace, the 12-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Laplace of San Francisco, who are summering here, was kicked in the face by a fractious horse one day last week. He had his nose broken and received a deep gash on the upper lip. He was taken to Dr. Crepin's office for surgical treatment and will be none the worse for the accident in a week or two.

Tell you what, we boys bave been kept pretty busy fighting fires lately. Good exercise to develop the muscles. Last week the sparks from an engine set fire to William Ashe's place at Warfield station. It was all we could do to keep the fire from the buildings. A strong north wind was blowing and for a few hours we had to work. Mr. Quien lost a small stack of hay but the larger stack was saved. At night we were tired out. Monday L. Justi's pasture caught fire in the same manner and for a while we thought it would spread to the neighboring ranches, but many hands and prompt action soon put the fire to rout.

Our New Advertisements

One of the attractions of the INDEX-TRIBUNE is its advertising columns, which are always replete with brand new and attractive announcements.

This week a large number of new ads will be found on our second page, to which we invite the attention of our readers.

Clewe advertises shirts and hats. They are up to date and the proper thing. Visit the store and see for yourself.

Mrs. M. M. Skahan, who recently purchased R. B. McCord's grocery business in Glen Ellen, has opened a first-class bakery in connection with the store, which has been replenished with a fresh stock of groceries. Mrs. Skahan will make a specialty of buying farm and dairy produce, for which the highest cash market price will be paid. The attention of our readers in Glen Ellen and vicinity is called to her advertisement.

Michele Albera, formerly proprietor of the Campi Restaurant of Santa Rosa, has recently opened in that city one of the largest and best appointed restaurants north of San Francisco. It is located in the handsome new building recently erected on B street by the Elks. Visitors to Santa Rosa should not fail to patronize "The Albera," the name of this new restaurant, if they desire a good meal for 25c. or a French dinner from 50c. up.

The traveler between Sonoma and Santa Rosa should not fail to stop at Laloli & Co.'s roadside resort two miles this side of the latter place. This is a pleasant, shady place to stop for a short rest and refreshments. When passing that way drop in and see for yourself.

The "O. K." of Santa Rosa, located at 201 Fourth street, is kept by Fenaci & Cavagna, well known to most of our Swiss residents. When at the county seat they would be pleased to have you call in and see them. Their wet goods are the best that can be bought with money.

If you want a good meal drop in at the Mervyn Hotel, Glen Ellen, when up that way. Mr. and Mrs. Ross can cater to the most fastidious epicure, as they supply their table with all the delicacies of the season.

THREEFOLD LIGHTNING.

An Ancient Belief Coupled With Modern Scientific Decrees.

The Etruscans of old believed in three kinds of lightning—one incapable of doing any injury, another more mischievous in its character and consequently only to be issued with the consent of a quorum of twelve gods, and a third carrying mischief in its train and for which a regular decree was required from the highest divinities in the Etruscan skies. Curiously enough, modern scientists, following the lead taken by Arago, have also decreed that the varieties of lightning are threefold. The first comprehends that in which the discharge appears like a long luminous line, bent into angles and zigzags and varying in complexion from white to blue, purple or red. This kind is known as forked lightning, because it sometimes divides into two or more branches before reaching the earth.

The second differs from the first in the range of surface over which the flash is diffused. From this circumstance the discharge is designated sheet lightning, and if any real parallel can be instituted between the Etruscan and modern varieties this may be said to correspond with the innocuous lightning which any single god of Etruria could launch at his pleasure.

The third class are not only remarkable for their eccentricities, but they have been made the subject of considerable contention. They differ so widely from the more ordinary manifestations that many meteorologists have denied their right to be treated as legitimate lightnings. They neither assume the form of long lines on the one hand nor of sheets of flames on the other, but exhibit themselves as balls or globular lumps of fire.—Chambers' Journal.

Ancient Foot Coverings.

If we are to judge of the foot coverings handed down to us as relics from the courts of France, Spain, England and Germany, we can but conclude that for an extremely long period of time, probably eight or ten centuries, the dressing of the human foot has been, even in the so called civilized countries, but slightly different and only in degree from the customs of the followers of Confucius for thousands of years.

Fortunately for art, unfortunately for the history of civilization, so called, the artist of olden as well as modern times has not copied except in portraiture the cramped foot, the narrow toe, the elevated heel and the pinched instep, which have long accompanied the human foot. It seems reasonable to suppose, however, that the Roman artist and critic and the Grecian as well fully attempted to give us the perfect foot as found in the well developed Grecian woman of the day.

The sandals worn at the time when Rome was in her splendor were undoubtedly so constructed as to afford ample opportunity for the development of the foot and exhibit the beauty of its conformation.

Moral Effect of Diets.

An exclusively pork diet tends infallibly to pessimism. Beef, if persevered in for months, makes a man strong, energetic and audacious, says Pearson's Weekly. A mutton diet continued for any length of time tends to melancholia, while veal eaters gradually lose energy and gayety. The free use of eggs and milk tends to make women healthy and vivacious. Butter used in excess renders its users phlegmatic and lazy. Apples are excellent for brain workers, and everybody who has much intellectual work to do should eat them freely. Potatoes, on the contrary, render one dull, invidious and lazy when eaten constantly and in excess. To preserve the memory even to an advanced age nothing is better than mustard.

Great Men Who Danced.

The ancients regarded dancing as a necessary accomplishment. Socrates learned the art in his old age, while Plato in his "Commonwealth" advocated the establishment of dancing schools. The Romans celebrated their victories and pastoral festivals by elaborate dances. They excelled in pantomime dances, from which the ballet was evolved. The Emperor Domitian forbade the senators to dance and for so doing removed several members from the senate. Grave statesmen and politicians of high degree have excelled in the oldest of the arts.

Queer Inventions.

In 1854 a patent was granted in France on a combination opera hat and bandbox, and during the same year a mouth glue was invented for artistic purposes, such as sticking on photographs, negatives and for use on envelopes and postage stamps. The ingredients of the gum were cow's heel for adhesiveness and extract of vanilla, by which to avoid offense to the taste.

FATIGUE SENSE.

The Feeling That Notifies Man When It Is Time to Rest.

"I hardly know who are most to be pitied, the rich or idle and lazy who underwork or the very poor who must overwork to live," says a writer in Ainslee's. "The former grow flabby or tense, according to their heredity, in both muscle and mind, become fastidious, finicky and sentimental, are especially prone to yield to temptations of drink and excesses, must aimlessly change their interests, location and pursuits from sheer ennui, are easily bored and finally lose the power of being strenuous about anything. The effects of an inactive life upon the offspring are sometimes sadly and markedly degenerate.

"The overworked, especially if young, are prone to many forms of arrest. Children are undergrown in both height and weight. They are robbed of the paradise of leisure, which is the literal translation of the Greek word school. The high ideals and ambitions normal to adolescence fade into a dull state of apathy and discouragement and at worst of smoldering revolt against the existing order of things. To be always tired is miserable, and individual or social misery is a powder magazine liable to explode at any time.

"Man is endowed with a fatigue sense that tells him when he is tired. It seems to be a specific feeling, due perhaps to accumulated products of decomposition in the muscles. This pain tire is a warning to stop or let up. It is, however, possible to press on in defiance of it, and if we persist in so doing there comes a point when this fatigue sense is itself fatigued and tired out and ceases to act. This is when runners get their second breath; when those beginning night work have fought through the period of sleepiness that comes when they have been wont to go to bed and feel very wide awake and alert, as if they could go on forever. But the day of reckoning comes. They are now living on their capital, which is being rapidly overdrawn."

What a Dozen Is.

The child is taught at school that a dozen means twelve every time, but when the child grows into a man he finds that a dozen is a very elastic term. A baker's dozen is thirteen, and so is a publisher's or a news agent's in many parts of the world. In some sections a dozen of fish means twenty-six, and there are other anomalies of this kind. But to find a dozen indicating anything from two to fifty it is necessary to go to the earthenware trade.

Here the size and weight of articles decide how many make a dozen, and in jugs, bowls, plates and so on there are two, four, six, eight or more to the dozen. A dozen composed of twelve articles is a very unusual thing in the wholesale pottery trade, and as a result there are few clerkships more difficult to hold than in this line. I tried the work once and failed ignominiously. To have to find the cost of 500 articles at so much a dozen when that dozen may mean anything is a very difficult task until a man gets thoroughly used to it.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum.

"Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker of Bookwalter, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor's was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For sale by F. Duhring.

NATURAL SMUGGLERS.

Women Cannot or Will Not Understand the Customs Laws.

While he admits that our customs regulations are odious and more rigid than those of any other country in the world, William E. Curtis declares that the greater part of the trouble of which returning travelers complain is due to their own folly in endeavoring to elude the vigilance of the inspectors, for people who are detected in tricks always have to pay the penalty. He says:

"People cannot be made to understand that every article they have purchased abroad, no matter what it is or who it is for or what they paid for it, must be taxed according to the laws of congress. If it is only a glove or a photograph or a little memento of insignificant value, it is required to pay duty, just as if it were brought in by the carload. That law was made by congress and not by the inspector who meets you at the dock or the collector of customs, to whom he is subordinate, or the secretary of the treasury, who frames the regulations. But average travelers seem to be unable to get it out of their minds, particularly the women, that the inspectors who examine their trunks are impertinent and offensive intruders.

"Travelers returning from Europe can get through the customs easily and cheerfully if they will exercise a little patience and be honest and candid. If they are looking for trouble, they can find plenty of it, but it is a great deal better for them to accept the situation, obey the law and avoid quarrels with the inspectors.

"The latter are required to perform a disagreeable duty. They are employed by the government to prevent smuggling, and their living as well as their reputation depends upon their vigilance. Most of them are experienced and shrewd detectives, who are accustomed to deal with people who are trying to evade the law and the payment of their just dues. They are naturally suspicious. No one could serve many months as a custom house inspector without having his faith in humanity and especially in the feminine gender entirely dispelled. Women are natural smugglers. They cannot or will not understand the law."

Sulphur In the Mineral Kingdom.

Sulphur occurs very widely distributed in the mineral kingdom, partly free and partly combined with other elements. The free sulphur is either found pure in regularly formed crystals or intimately mixed with earthy matters. In its native state sulphur is largely found in Sicily and Italy and as a general rule in abundance in volcanic districts. The brittleness of sulphur renders the cleavage imperfect. Sulphuric acid is an important combination and a very dangerous one in inexperienced hands. Sulphur combined with a number of elements, such as iron, copper, lead, etc., furnishes the sulphides. In the vegetable kingdom sulphur is a small constituent of the albuminous bodies and of certain volatile irritant oils. Moreover, the vegetable juices contain it in the form of certain sulphates.

A Nice Hash.

He came down to breakfast, and nothing was ready, so he rang the bell.

"Mrs. Perkins," he said when the landlady appeared, "what is the meaning of this? Why is breakfast not ready?"

"Well, sir," replied Mrs. Perkins, "I got a nice bit of fish for you, but I'm sorry to say, sir, the cat"—

"Confound the cat! Then let me have the cold chicken."

"I regret to say, sir, the cat"—

"Well, then some eggs."

"There are no eggs, sir. The cat"—

"Hang it all! Then cook the cat, and we'll have it all at once!"

Doing a Good Deed.

A poor scribbler who had written a lampoon against Diderot, the encyclopedist, and wished to dedicate it to the Duke of Orleans came with it in his poverty to Diderot, and Diderot, pitying the creature, wrote the dedication for him and so raised five and twenty louis d'or to save his famishing lampooner alive.

He used to declare that no amount of praise could have given him so much gratification as the sight of the poor man's face as he received his pension, and no slanderer was ever more quickly converted into a devoted admirer.

Slang In Shakespeare.

Shakespeare is truly "not for an age, but for all time" in many ways. I find in "Winter's Tale," act iv, scene 4, Servant says to Polixenes, "They have a dance which the wenches say is a gallimanfry of gambols because they are not in't." In "Measure For Measure" Vincentio, the duke, soliloquizes, act iv, scene 1, "O place and greatness, millions of false eyes are stuck upon thee."—Exchange.

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF
DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE
by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.
HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours, F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
